UNIVERSITY CHORALE

Fall 2020 Choir classes follow a hybrid model of online singing and in-person community building classes that fit within CDC Health Guidelines. NO ADD CODES REQUIRED.

The University of Washington Chorale is an auditioned advanced undergraduate ensemble of music and non-music majors from the Seattle campus. UW Chorale appears annually as a guest ensemble with the Seattle Symphony, and has sung in joint concerts with Revalia Male Chamber Choir in Estonia, and for the Princess of Sweden. UW Chorale appeared at the Latvian Song Festival in Riga, during the summer of 2013 and the Estonian Festival of Song and Dance in 2019, as one of the only American choirs. Their first two solo CDs, Climb and Refuge, are now available for purchase at iTunes, CD Baby or from Dr. Wyers. A third CD, Resonant Streams, was released in 2018 and was featured in a review by Gramophone magazine. UW Chorale values its community; projects are chosen to highlight the diversity and cross-disciplinary interests of its members.

Normally meets Mondays & Wednesdays 3:30-5:20 pm in Music Building, Room 213.

SPRING 2020 DIGITAL CONCERT SERIES KICKS OFF MAY 11

Students and faculty of the University of Washington School of Music performance studios present music from across the ages in this digital-only concert series, special for Spring 2020.

The series of premieres of pre-recorded video content highlights past performances at the University as well as special extras recorded by faculty artists exclusively for this series.
FACULTY PROFILE: GISELLE WYERS, CHORAL CONDUCTING/VOICE

An exceptionally full year finds Giselle Wyers immersed in multiple large projects both at the University and beyond. Head of the School of Music's choral conducting and voice programs and director of the University Chorale (an auditioned ensemble of UW undergraduates), she also is in demand as a clinician and as a composer of commissioned choral works. Professor Wyers conducts all-state choruses this season in Kansas, Nevada, and Wisconsin.
